Attorney using Hancock County murder case to challenge death penalty in U.S.

BY GEOFF BELCHER
NEWS EDITOR

A Jackson public defender is using a Hancock County murder case to challenge the constitutionality of the death penalty in America.

Alison Steiner, of the state public defender's office in Jackson, has filed a petition with the U.S. Supreme Court asking it to review the death penalty case of Timothy Evans, who was convicted of capital murder in August 2013 for the Jan. 2, 2010 of 70-year-old Wenda Holling.

In the petition, Steiner claims that the death penalty in this case was unfairly "arbitrary" because the Mississippi Gulf Coast is a "hotspot" for death sentences. She also claims the death penalty "in and of itself" violates the Eight Amendment because it is a "cruel and unusual" punishment.

Steiner said in the brief that "the time has come to decide the constitutionality of the death penalty," and Evans case is "a suitable vehicle for doing so."

A Hancock County jury

voted unanimously to convict Evans for Holling's death, finding that on Jan. 2, 2010, he strangled her to death, stuffed her body in the trunk of her own car and drove it to a wooded area in Harrison County. He then used her credit cards to buy gas, food and alcohol for himself and a friend. A county road crew discovered her body on Jan. 26 that same year.

Evans later confessed to the murder to authorities in Florida, and then again to Hancock County deputies and a news reporter.

The same jury that convicted him also voted to give him the death penalty.

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors on Monday voted to terminate the contract with Quality Correction Health Care, Inc. for inmate health services.

After an executive session with Hancock County Sheriff Ricky Adam, the board made the decision to give Quality Correction Health Care, Inc. a 60-day notice of cancellation.

Adam also asked the board to approve three personnel changes: Casey Favre to be named full-time director of health services and nurse practitioner with an annual salary of $123,000; Christina Herman to be named full-time medical services coordinator at the

Waveland police assist in arrest of double-homicide suspects

BY GEOFF BELCHER

Waveland police officers assisted in the arrest of two of the four suspects in the murders of two Pearl River, Louisiana residents whose bodies were found in a submerged car hauled up from the Pearl River, just across the state line from Pearllington on Monday.

Members of the St. Tammany Parish Sheriff's Office dive team and detectives on Monday located a 2011 Chevy Camaro "with two bodies inside, believed to be those of Raegan Elizabeth Day and Dustin R. Hartline, the two friends reported missing from the Pearl River area since Feb. 15," according to St.

Cub Scout Troop Tree Planting in Diamondhead

SEA COAST ECHO
On Saturday, Feb. 17, the members of Cub Scout Pack 210 of Diamondhead United Methodist Church, their parents and volunteers accomplished a huge goal of planting 16 trees in an hour and a half in the green space in front of Diamondhead City Hall in the area of the Diamondhead Fitness Trail. The trees planted include 3 southern magnolias (the state tree of Mississippi), 4 crepe myrtle trees (variety Acoma), 1 green ash tree, 5 bald cypress trees and 3 river birch trees. All of the trees, other than the crepe myrtle trees, are native trees in south Mississippi. All trees will provide shade for the fitness trail, shelter for birds, flowers and food for birds.

The trees were planted, mulched and watered. The troop meets weekly across the street at the Diamondhead United Methodist Church on a weekly basis, so they will be able to water the plants easily. Jason Pyron is the Wolf Scout Den leader (vice troop leader). Jason created labels for the trees with the correct name and the name of the troop for each tree. The scouts thoroughly enjoyed their experience planting the trees, working with others and learning about the need for trees in our environment and what they need to grow successfully. As the boys grow, they will have the experience of watching their trees grow.

The City of Diamondhead would like to thank everyone who made the scout tree planting project such a success: Crosby Arboretum, Home Depot in Gulfport, Plants and Things, Diamondhead Beautiful Committee, Diamondhead Garden Club, Paul Montjoy, Joe Kaley, Mitzi Botsay, Nancy Depreo, Pat Bontempo, Dianne Domangue, Eileen O'Brien, Penny Crawford, Judy Lee and Nydia Bernard, Brierley Acker and Nadia Bernard.

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors on Monday approved several budget amendments for additional personnel in Hancock County Court.

Hancock County Court Judge Trent Favre said his two months in county court have given him a "handle on where we need to go."

Favre said while he was there to discuss this year's fiscal budget, he also wanted to lay the groundwork for the next fiscal year. He added that the personnel changes would not "change the bottom line."

The first personnel request was the hiring of Yulundar Marshall as court reporter, which he is required by law to have, Favre said. He said the salary of $64,000 is also "dictated by the state." Favre said he needed a budget amendment to this year's budget of $14,000. The original line item was for $50,000. Marshall's effective employment date will be March 19.

The second personnel request was the hiring of Candace Payne Johnson as youth court administrator.

Favre said that in order to get Johnson's salary in line with what the "state recommends," he requested an increase in the budget from $37,000 to $45,000.

Johnson's effective employment date will be March 12.

Favre said that he receives funds from the state and that this year he received $29,000, which he said he is using to "pick up some of the costs" of these increases.

The third personnel request was the hiring of Kelly Creely as staff attorney, effective March 6, at a $62,500 annual salary, according to state pay scales, Favre said. Creely would fall into the staff attorney three category because of her experience, Favre added.

Favre said that Creely will be responsible for case work related to both county and youth courts.

Right now, Favre said, Creely will be looking back on cases that need attention.

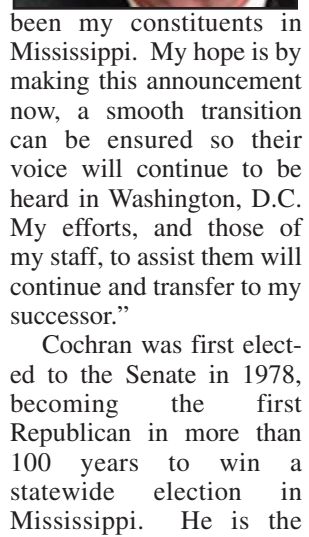

The fourth personnel recommendation was the addition of a staff clerk.

He said that the staff clerk would support the prosecutor by preparing petitions, summons, subpoenas, etc.

The board approved a motion authorizing Favre to advertise for a staff clerk.

The final budget amendment involved an increase of the county prosecutor's annual salary to $64,000. Part of the prosecutor's salary is also paid by drug court, Favre said.

Bounds Praised for Wildlife Legislation

Wildlife Mississippi is praising Mississippi Representative Scott Bounds, chair of the House Wildlife Committee, for introducing House Bill 1390 which will allow the Mississippi Department of Wildlife, Fisheries and Parks (MDWFP) to better manage Mississippi's white-tailed deer and wild turkey populations. With the recent confirmation of chronic wasting disease in Mississippi, the time to effectively manage our white-tailed deer population for future generations is now more important than ever before. There are approximately 782,000 hunters and angler in Mississippi that spend approximately $2.5 billion per year; deer hunters represent the largest number of hunters and the largest percentage of these expenditures.

I realize that the first reaction of most individuals to a bill that would require the mandatory reporting (not physical tagging) of harvested white-tailed deer and wild turkey beginning on March 1, 2019 is not often praise. But let me explain how important this legislation is to you as a hunter/conservationist.

House Bill 1390 will require the simple reporting as stated, and at no cost to the hunter. Reporting would be done via a smart phone app, MDWFP website or call in to a MDWFP 1-800 number. Hunters would have 72 hours to report their harvest. Harvest information would include information such as the date, county of harvest, public or private land and sex of the animal. Deer clubs, enclosures or private lands that are on the Deer Management Assistance Program would be exempt since they are already reporting. Currently, Mississippi and Florida are the only two states that do not require harvest reporting of some type. Alabama has implemented this system of harvest reporting called "Alabama Game Check" and it has proven to be very hunter-friendly, accepted and effective.

Harvest reporting is the most effective tool to collect needed information to equip policy makers and the MDWFP with data which will enhance efforts to more effectively manage Mississippi's white-tailed deer and wild turkey resources. This is common sense legislation that goes for a good cause and is long overdue.

I have worked with the Mississippi Legislature for a long time. Mississippi is fortunate to have Chairman Bounds serving this great state. He is respected by his peers and our citizens. He has earned that by listening more than talking, recognizing the needs of others, being reasonable, honest, fair and genuine, and being passionate about whom he represents and caring more about what is right than popular. We need more people in government service with these traits. And with more people serving our great state with traits like Scott Bounds, Mississippi is a better place to live, work and raise a family. Thank you Chairman Bounds!

Revisiting "I'm special delivery"

In a recent conversation, my cousin, Andrea Lacy Perry, mentioned how much inspiration she continues to receive from I'm Special Delivery, a column that is part of Reflections On Life, a 1981 booklet of some of my weekly columns. Her remark inspired me to republish I'm Special Delivery with minor additions.

For sure, I am not junk or junk mail, because God does not make junk. You had better believe that I am Special Delivery. No matter who or what you think I am. No matter what you think of me. God had very special plans when creating me special, all indications, evidence and circumstances to the contrary notwithstanding.

Don't let my wrapping fool you. Regardless of how you view me, I am a gift from God. Whether you consider me a close relative, a friend, an acquaintance or just a stranger, I am a gift sent to you with a mission no one else can fulfill.

Gift-wrapped in riches and abundance, you might be inclined to accept me more readily, since gaudy and especially expensive exteriors might appeal to your desires, hopes and plans for the future.

REFLECTIONS ON LIFE

by Fr. Jerome Ledoux, SVD

Will you accept me just as quickly if I am wrapped in poverty and want, cloaked in shoddy clothes, housed in a plain or even repulsive structure, from a dirty, noisy, run-down neighborhood? I am still Special Delivery.

My gift-wrapping may not be at all to your liking, but keep in mind that my wrapping is not I, for "the habit does not make the monk," the clothes do not make the person, and what we own is certainly not who or what we are.

I am every bit as special as weird-looking, outsize-headed, 4-foot-tall Charles Proteus Steinmetz. Almost refused admission at Ellis Island as an unfit immigrant, this genius – not Thomas Edison – facilitated universal use of alternating current. By his very appearance and genius, Steinmetz destroyed the arguments of abortionists. Yes, I am Special Delivery, just as special as Beethoven who had so many physical weaknesses and dysfunctions at birth that, had X-rays been made of him in the fetal state, he would have been a prime candidate for abortion on grounds of humaneness. Oh, what deceptions and regrets do we open ourselves to when we begin to make decisions that only God should make!

Can't you see that I am Special Delivery? If it weren't for me, life's jigsaw puzzle and the awesome, crazy quilt of the human race would be without one last vital piece. Yes, every individual person in the world is an integral part of these marvels. That's right. There are multi-billions of pieces in this crazy quilt, and not one of us among so many is overlooked or forgotten by God.

Part of my wrapping may be yellow, brown, white, black or any of a myriad of in-between hues. Rather than take anything away from me, it only enhances who I am and emphasizes further how special I am.

Even if I am sometimes too shy or too insecure to accept myself as special even if I am too fearful to peer beneath my wrapping or to let you do the same, I remain very special indeed. Neither my doubts and misgivings nor those of any others, make any difference concerning the special reality underneath.

Yes, I am Special Delivery. Whether you accept or reject my gift wrapping as springing from a depressing or gloomy neighborhood, or from an imposing background of culture and learning, I'm still a special gift.

A dirty wrapping of immorality, addiction or inferior upbringing may put me in a bad light, but just be mindful that this means merely that I need a bit more help from my friends. Notwithstanding, I am still Special Delivery.

You may be blinded by my singular gift wrapping of dazzling or dismal talents, by the sparkle or flatness of my personality, by the fire or fizzle of my temperament, by the nimbleness or clumsiness of my

New Anti-Diarrhea Drug Trend a New Threat

A new trend has caught on across America. The over the counter drug Imodium AD has been being abused to create an opiate-like high. In some cases, heroin addicts have attempted to use the drugs to get through opiate withdrawals. In others, it is people looking for a legal high.

The drug is taken in very large amounts sometimes 200 times the recommended dosage. The drug taken in such large amounts can be extremely

One Doctor at Baycare Clinic in Wisconsin detailed the dangerous effects of the drug in an interview with ABC 2

As a result, the FDA is

The FDA has not made any decision to pull the medicine from the shelves. For the meantime, Narconon Drug Rehabilitation would like to warn you to keep an eye out for those buying Imodium A-D. Hancock County’s new County Court Judge to swear in new CASA volunteers this Thursday

SEA COAST ECHO
BY ST. LOUIS, MS, March 5, 2018)-CASA of Hancock County will celebrate the induction of 9 new volunteers on Thursday, March 8th at the Leo Seals Center in Waveland. This ceremony will be conducted by Hancock County’s new County Court Judge, S. Trent Favre. CASA’s newest volunteers will be on hand along with their families, several current CASA volunteers, program staff members, board members and community supporters. “I cannot underscore the importance of this unique volunteer experience. CASA Advocates are well-trained, committed community members who remain focused on the needs of the child and provide the court with invaluable facts about the child and family they are working with,” states Cynthia Chauvin, Executive Director. Currently, there are over 340 children in foster care in Hancock County. CASA of Hancock County is a 501(c)3 nonprofit organization that utilizes trained community members to advocate for children who through no fault of their own are involved in the complex and overburdened child welfare and youth court systems. Often there is not one consistent adult who is a voice in the child’s life. A CASA volunteer provides individualized one-on-one advocacy and works with all agencies and parties involved to gather information and to provide an independent report for the Court with recommendations based solely upon the child’s best interest. Chemours official opens 300,000-sq.-ft. distribution center

Chemours Titanium Technologies officials on Tuesday hosted a ribbon cutting ceremony at the company's new 300,000-square-foot distribution center at DeLisle. The center represents a $12 million investment which Chemours will use to distribute its titanium dioxide products, which are used to create brighter, more efficient pigments for companies world-wide to use in coatings, plastics, laminates, paper products and more. Chemours Global Operations Director Mike Welch visited the facility on Tuesday to cut the ribbon.

Chemours DeLisle on Tuesday hosted a ribbon cutting ceremony at its new 300,000-square-foot distribution center. "This is a great investment in our community with a great partner,"

Harrison County Development Commission Executive Director Bill Lavers told Chemours workers Tuesday during the ceremony. "Congratulations and thank you for your continued investment in our county." Company officials said Tuesday that the warehouse represents a more than $12 million investment in DeLisle. Chemours Titanium Technologies is the world's largest manufacturer of titanium dioxide products, trademarked as "Ti-Pure." "Before, we were operating out of six different warehouses ...," Chemours

Global Operations Director Mike Welch said. "That's not very efficient." Welch said the new facility at DeLisle will enable Chemours to capitalize on one of its leading growth opportunities with ease of global shipment. • See CHEMOURS./Page 6A mind. But be aware that these things are not the gift. The gift is still Special Delivery. I’m not nearly so special as the Prototype of us all, but Jesus put the stamp of special on all human deliveries by coming into the world in a cattle cave, in a nation of little political account, from a poor family that no one cared to put up for a single night, and with a status and destiny unknown to almost everyone. to all the world, not just because of my wrapping but quite often in spite of my wrapping. Your route to and through my wrapping may be easy or difficult. Whatever; it is necessary, because I have something to present that is unique in all the earth.

the death penalty for Evans last year.

That Petitioner Timothy Nelson Evans is sitting on death row after being convicted of this kind of crime is a product primarily of geographic accident," Steiner said in the U.S. Supreme Court brief. "He had the misfortune to commit his crime in the Second Circuit Court District of Mississippi, comprising three counties

Harrison, Hancock and Stone on Mississippi's Gulf Coast, where the death penalty is fairly routinely sought in such murders."

Although the Coast -- the state's Second Circuit Court District -- reported five times fewer murders and non-negligent homicides between 1985 and 2014,than did the Seventh District (Hinds County), it had more death penalties imposed.

"Since 2000, only 25 death sentences have been imposed in the State of Mississippi -- fewer than two per year on average. Eight of those sentences including the one on (Evans) in the present case or nearly a third of all the death sentences imposed, have come out of the Second Circuit Court District.

"Only two have come from the Seventh. ... Second Circuit Court District comes out as the death sentencing leader, and has, indeed, widened its lead considerably, both in actual numbers and in the proportion of all the death sentences in Mississippi that it represents. ..."

District Attorney Joel Smith has not yet publicly responded to Steiner's petition.

A motion to approve the personnel changes died due to a tie. Supervisors Greg Shaw and Scotty Adam voted "yes." Supervisors David Yarborough and Blaine LaFontaine voted "no."

Supervisor Bo Ladner was not in attendance and board attorney Gary Yarborough said the motion required a majority to pass.

David Yarborough said he wanted more time to "do his homework" and suggested putting it off until the next meeting.

LaFontaine said he would approve two of the personnel changes, but wanted to discuss Favre's salary.

Adam said that even with those salaries, the county would still be saving about $5,000.

LaFontaine made a motion to hire Herman and Thurman for the positions effective April 30. The motion passed three-to-one. Yarborough voted no.

Tiger football opens search for new mentor

BY JOSEPH W. GEX, II
STAFF WRITER

The Bay High Tigers will be led by a new football coach next year as the school district decided to move in a new direction.

Vernon Powell, athletic director for the Bay-Waveland School District, stated in an interview with another news source, "We have decided as a school district to go in a new direction."

He went on to further state that the decision to make the change was made two weeks ago and that it was finalized last Wednesday.

Benji Foreman served as head coach of Bay High for the past two seasons as the Tigers went 2-8 in 2016 and 0-10 in 2017.

Foreman served nine seasons on the Tiger staff until he was elevated to head coach in April 2016. He replaced Jeff Hopgood who had stepped down to join the Hancock High School football staff.

Prior to coming to Bay High, Foreman served on the football staff at Long Beach High School beginning in 2003 and stayed until he moved to Bay St. Louis.

The Tigers last reached the playoffs in 2012 under Hopgood when they went 10-2.

Powell further stated, "We want to bring in somebody that is very knowledgeable and that brings a lot of excitement to our program. We need to draw our community out. Coach Foreman has given a lot to our district. We just feel like it is time to do something new."

A time table on naming a new head coach was not revealed but spring training begins on May 1st.

A West Coast reunion with a Bay St. Louis connection

SEA COAST ECHO
LONG BEACH, CA -- Thanks to Ole Miss baseball, a couple of St. Stanislaus Rockachaws had a special reunion recently. Former SSC star pitcher Greer Holston did a stint on the mound as the Rebels played a three-game series against the Dirtbags of California State University-Long Beach the weekend of March 2nd.

Living just a few miles away in Seal Beach, CA, Irv Cuevas, SSC '61, was able to take in a couple games and spend time with both Holston and Ole Miss's long-time head baseball coach Mike Bianco on the field prior to one of the games. Ole Miss, ranked 9th nationally going into the series, won 2 out of the 3 matchups.

Holston, from Long Beach, MS, attended Stanislaus 7th through 11th grade before transferring to IMG Academy in Florida. As a Rockachaw, Holston earned accolades as best right-handed pitcher in Mississippi and was named 2015 4A Player of the Year in Mississippi after leading SSC to a state championship. Holston is a General Business Major at Ole Miss, with plans to be a nutritionist following his baseball career.

Cuevas, now retired, spent almost 40 years as a television news journalist with stops in Hattiesburg, Meridian, Biloxi, Atlanta, NBC News-Burbank, then the most years at KABC-TV News in Los Angeles. He's now on the Boards of Directors of the Newport Beach Navy League and the Notre Dame Club of Orange County; and also is active in his Catholic parish and Knights of Columbus Council.

SECOND SATURDAY

OLD TOWN CELEBRATES SOUPER MUDFEST

BY DENISE K. JACOBS
The SOUPer Mudfest kicks off Saturday, March 10, at 4 p.m., near the corner of Main and Second streets. Early bird sales of bowls begin at 3:30 p.m. For $20.00, you can be part of the fun. Buy your bowl for $20 at Main and Second Street, and tour Bay St. Louis Old Town businesses to enjoy a tasting of over 20 soups.

As usual, two Old Town Merchant Association Hot Spot businesses will be featured: Green Canyon Outfitters and the Antique Maison Ulman and Tea Room.

GREEN CANYON OUTFITTERS

For Brennan Marlowe, sole proprietor of Green Canyon Outfitters, 108 S. Beach Blvd., Bay St. Louis, above Cuz's Restaurant, the best part of owning a business in Bay St. Louis is the opportunity to give back to his home community. Marlowe, a Waveland native, elaborates: "When I was at St. Stanislaus just before the Katrina era, I would have to drive to Gulfport or Biloxi to get what I needed. So, when I opened Green Canyon Outfitters, I said I would have access to things I couldn't get before. I didn't go into the business thinking I would become a millionaire, but if you can keep it alive and rolling to give back, that's the point."

Green Canyon Outfitters specializes in high-end affordable outdoor apparel and accessories. As might be expected, most of the business comes from locals, including St. Stanislaus students, between March and July. Marlowe is happy to report, though, that many repeat out-of-state customers make yearly trips to the store. "From the beginning," he explains, "I wanted to make sure that the customer-service experience exceeded the customer's expectations."

GREEN CANYON OUTFITTERS IN THE FRENCH SETTLEMENT BUILDING ON BEACH BLVD. SPECIALIZES IN HIGH-END AFFORDABLE OUTDOOR APPAREL AND ACCESSORIES.

Indeed, the online reviews of the store are all positive and range from "Great company with an amazing selection of products to choose from," to "Pricing is great, and customer service was outstanding," to "This is the go-to place for cool outdoorsy styles." Marlowe likes to say that the store focuses on Southern Hospitality. "We're friendly," he says.

As a buyer, Marlowe chooses to focus on items that give back "somehow or some way." This includes the Parks Project and tentree clothing lines. For each Parks Project item purchased, a percentage of proceeds from the sale goes to one of over 30 different conservancies across the United States to provide funding for National Parks. For every item purchased at tentree, ten trees are planted. This is the sort of thing that excites Brenna Marlowe: "Not only are you buying something; you're buying some thing," he says. More mainstream products include Patagonia, Hard Tail, Royal Robbins, and a line of sunglasses to die for: Maui Jim, Olukai, Ray Ban, and Shwood.

Marlowe graduated from Ole Miss with a degree in exercise and physiology with an emphasis on pre-medical studies, but he had this idea for the store, and he just wanted to try it. "A lot of people have ideas," Marlowe atre in the American sector of New Orleans. He and his wife, Louise, owned a home in Pass Christian (the Saucier Bidwell Pratt house). This presentation will cover the highlights of David Bidwell's career in theatre, his legacy and his love of Pass Christian.

The Historical Society is located at 201 East Scenic Drive in Pass Christian. The meeting is free and everyone is welcome to attend. Please call the Historical Society at 228-452-7254 or email president@passhistory.org, if you have any questions or need further information.

Museum Partnership Brings Cultural Event to Coleman Avenue

SEA COAST ECHO After all the fanfare of Mardi Gras has long been put away Lisa Latino Keel, Multimedia artist, continues to bring the memories of the glory days of Mardi Gras in her vintage jewelry and bead work.

Working in Partnership with the Ground Zero Museum and The Arts, Hancock County, Keel is the first artist to have her work on display in this combined Museum, Art Partnership of Art on Coleman Avenue.

Keel takes her Vintage glass beads that were once lost and brings them back to life in new bold settings of silk thread, Russian Gold plated wire and findings.

Keel's design process is to conceptualize the piece of jewelry first, and then it goes through an actual artistic phase where the piece is drawn out from the concept before the actually beading of the piece becomes wearable art. Leaning heavily on Mardi Gras colors; purple, green and gold, each antique piece is an original one of a kind work of art that cannot be replicated.

"After Hurricane Katrina something very special happened, I was searching like so many others for my personal possessions, when the concept of my Decadence Collection was brought to life.

While the 26 foot tidal surge took away everything I owned here on the Mississippi Gulf Coast it could not take away the traditions of my family, the love of Mardi Gras and the memories of my grandparents being King and Queen of Mardi Gras Courts, and the wide-eyed innocence of playing in my Grandmother Iris's jewelry box," said Keel.

This love of family and tradition is seen throughout her work in her beaded work for the home, jewelry embellishments and vintage beads.

The exhibit will run through the month of March.

WAVELAND CITY HALL HOSTS Linda Aiavolasiti's Art

SEA COAST ECHO Linda Aiavolasiti is always seeking that "illusive butterfly" as her creative outlet and that is what she sees when she looks at a flower or another part of nature or even a book; it strikes a chord in her wild creative imagination.

For this energetic, creative Waveland resident The Ground Zero Hurricane Museum Director visual art has become her after work martini.

She has developed her self-taught visual artistic personality over the years to give herself a release from her daily life she has allowed her art to become the escape that so many often talk about yet so few actually accomplish in their life.

"As a 'lefty' in a right handed world, I feel that my art says something different about me that others may not know or even understand", according to Aiavolasiti.

While Aiavolasiti describes her style as "eclectic" she uses chalk pastels and colored pencils because it may be a departure from the usual methods of acrylics or oils for pieces that are of this size according to Aiavolasiti, "I find it to be inexpensive and easy to contain, which is an important factor to me".

When Aiavolasiti is not working on her afternoon pursuit of happiness she can be found in the The Ground Zero Hurricane Museum on Coleman

Linda Aiavolasiti

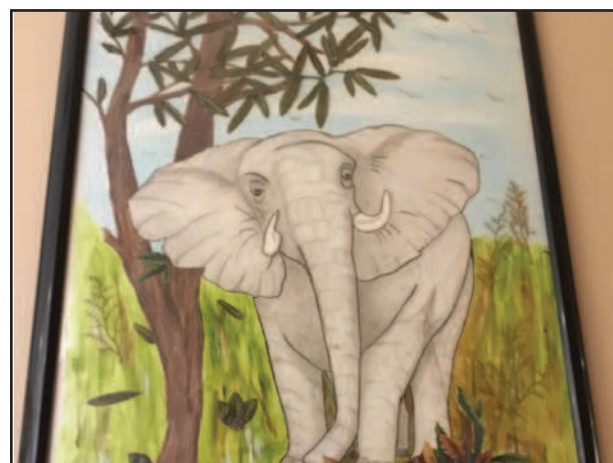

Avenue in Waveland.

The Museum is her passion because "I love to talk to all (the) visitors from all over the world because Katrina was a worldwide storm." Before becoming the director, Aiavolasiti, was a volunteer for the museum starting in 2013. Aiavolasiti's other interests include The Little Theatre in Bay St. Louis and Pass Christian where she has performed in eight plays and has also served in the capacity of assistant director. Aiavolasiti loves Waveland, moving here in 1994 and buying a home in 2001 saying, "You may meet some strange people here, but you will never meet a stranger"

To become a museum volunteer please email LindaKidd@RSVP.com

The Arts on Coleman Ave is a joint cooperative between The Arts: Hancock County and Waveland City Hall Aiavolasiti's work will hang in the Waveland City Hall until the end of March.

Once owners of a business on the 2000 block of Magazine Street, the couple relocated to Bay St. Louis in 1990. A year later, they opened a tuxedo, bridal, and costume shop on Second Street. However, like many Bay St. Louis merchants, Hurricane Katrina played a role in the lives of Sylvia and Ed Young. After Katrina wrecked its havoc on the Second Street building, Sylvia and Ed renovated and reopened it as an antique store—Antique Maison.

The Antique Maison Ulman and Tea Room came later as did Sylvia's latest vision—an outdoor garden. In the center of the garden stands the Heavenly Tea Garden Tree, an historical tree dedicated by Father Jim of St. Augustine Seminary.

In addition to two tea rooms, one private with seating up to twenty, the expansive main dining room, which holds thirty-five, and the garden and deck area, which adds additional seating for thirty-five, is the store itself. The Ulman branch of Antique Maison features three large display rooms housing antiques, nostalgia, and vintage in quality furniture, home décor, art, collectables, jewelry, china, and crystal. If guests do not find what they are looking for, Sylvia will happily walk them into the Quonset hut dedicated to special sale items and overflow. Treasures abound!

Sylvia delights in operating the Ulman site. She explains that many of her customers are just passing through. Some are visiting. Some are lost. Some just got off the highway and found themselves at the store. "I always play tour guide," she says. "I take out the map and tell folks where things are, where to eat, and so forth." Sylvia notes that her first-time customers often fall in love with Bay St. Louis. Sometimes they mention buying a house, and she calls upon her 35 years in real estate to give them information.

The Antique Maison Ulman and Tea Room, Garden is open Monday through Saturday from 10:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. The Tearoom offers a wide assortment of hot and cold teas, iced and hot coffees, soft drinks, and desserts. High Tea Windsor is offered, as well, albeit by reservation only. Reservations are requested 48 hours in advance.

Whether you are a frequent visitor, a newbie, or have lived here all your life, do stop by on Second Saturday, March 10, between 4:00 p.m. and 8:00 p.m. Sylvia and Missy will be serving soups from the High Tea menu to those with proof of Mudfest purchase along with samples from the High Tea menu.

ELSEWHERE FOR SECOND SATURDAY
Visit Gallery 220 at 220 Main Street, Bay St. Louis to celebrate SOUPer Mudfest and Second Saturday. There you will also get the chance to meet featured artist Herb Willey and enjoy the newly-renovated gallery.

Willey is an internationally renowned artist. Last year, he was granted Master Membership by the International Watercolor Society Global division based in Hong Kong.

He has been lauded by the Louisiana Watercolor Society numerous times; and recognized by the International Watercolor Society, with shows in Hong Kong and Taiwan.

As a self-employed designer from 1965-2003, Herb won awards from companies including Mercury Outboard Motors and Cook Chemical Company.

His primary watercolor instruction was with the well known New Orleans watercolorist, Harrel Gray and his work was on display at the Old Quarter Gallery in the French Quarter during the 90's. Herb is a full-time Bay St. Louis resident.

His work is displayed at Gallery 220 and Bay Life in Bay St. Louis and his prints are for sale in the Walter Anderson Museum in Ocean Springs. His watercolor pieces have been juried and honored in regional, national and international shows including the Arts of Hancock County, The Gulf Coast Art Association, the Ocean Springs Art Association, The Pass Christian Art Association annual shows and the River Road Show in Baton Rouge.

CALIFORNIA DRAWSTRINGS

The Mudfest isn't the only thing "Souper" in Old Town this weekend -- the prices and selections at California Drawstrings -- 216 Main St. -- are pretty "super," as well.

"We don't try to be everything to everybody," store owner Linda Keenan says, "but we concentrate on comfortable clothing, made in the USA if possible, and we carry all sizes from extra small up to 3x, so we can fit almost anybody, and if they like comfortable clothing, this is where to come."

Keenan makes sure that California Drawstrings offers the Coast's finest resort wear.

She prefers clothing that is made in the U.S. and uses natural fibers, like those made by brands such as Flax and Matchpoint.

A native of Park Ridge, Ill., and alumnae of Spring

Hill College in Massachusetts, Keenan fell in love with the Gulf South when she came down to New Orleans in advance of the 1984 World's Fair.

She was in real estate at the time, but knew people coming from the north to New Orleans would be in need of some lighter clothing. She started at the French Market with two tables and a $1,500 investment, which eventually grew into a $1.4 million a year business, with stores on Royal Street in New Orleans; in Covington; and in Bay St. Louis.

She originally came to the Bay a few years ago in response to an invitation from Maggie May's owner Nancy Moynan. Keenan determined that Bay St.

Louis is where she wanted to spend the rest of her days.

She first opened a shop inside Maggie May's, then expanded her inventory and moved into the building at 216 Main St.

Stop by on Second Saturday for a "super" shopping experience. For more information, call 228-463-2124.

Pre-K students of Holy Trinity sponsored a service project for the month of February to benefit the Hancock County Animal Shelter. Throughout the month, students brought in supplies such as food, towels, blankets, and cleaning supplies. The students delivered the supplies and spent some time helping at the shelter. It was an added treat for the students to spend time petting and sharing some love with many cats, dogs, and even guinea pigs.
